FORNEY'S PRESS.

Forney in his Press of the 11th inst., throws off his disguise, and under the plausible and specious cry of reform, tilts himself against the Republican party in this State, and in doing so, he pits himself against the national Republican Organization. It is written "he that is not for us is against us," and that it is "impossible to serve God and Mammon." So it is equally impossible for the Press to war against the State ticket, and at the same time not war against the national ticket. The State ticket is incorporated into, and is part of the national ticket, and the defeat of the former in October next, will be the precursor of the defeat of the latter, in November.

Now what is the sum—total, and true cause of Forney's opposition to the State ticket? If he is to be believed, it can't be Hartranft's incapacity, or dishonesty, for he has repeatedly in the most emphatic manner testified in behalf of both, through the columns, of the Press, styling him "the Gallant Soldier and an honest man." In his double leaded editorial in the Press of the 11th inst., he complains that the State Convention, that nominated Hartranft, did not nominate the man of his choice. That the Press some months prior to its meeting, had counselled the Convention to make good nominations. And although said convention ought to be allowed a mite of discretion as to what a good nomination is, yet, Forney is not disposed to concede that they were entitled to any, and calls them the "most scandalous "body that had assembled at Harrisburg "since the infamous Democratic Le- "compton constitution 1858—1859;"—and seems to be somewhat piqued because said Convention did not implicitly obey his dictation. We are disposed, after studying the course of the press for sometime past, and knowing something of the political character of J. W. Forney, to suggest and believe the following to be the true reasons of Forney's opposition to the State ticket.

First, because the State Convention refused to be Forneyited by obsequiously obeying his dictations, and exercised independence enough to act as they deemed best for the party and State.

Second, because J. W. Forney, would just as soon see the national ticket defeated, in November next as not, and a little rather; and if he can do anything to secure and be more efficient in its defeat by an act of duplicity, he will do the act. Hence he pretends support of Grant while he fights Hartranft.

Third, because he thinks the State ticket as in the field, is approved of by Senator Cameron, and any nomination approved of by the Senator, is sufficient ground in the eyes of the Reform Editor of the Press, for his opposing it.

Now we take the position, that our State ticket is a good one; that it is worthy of the support of the Republican party of the State, that it is the representative of the principles of the party, and as such no one can war against it, without fighting the party organization. And we consider the Republican party, organized, and founded upon principle, cannot and must not be sacrificed, to personal preference and the ambition of contending factions in its midst. The fight between Forney or Curtin, and Cameron, is of a personal character, and the success or triumph of one faction, is about as wholesome for the party and people of the State as the triumph or succees of the other. And the Republican party of the State and its success, is of too great importance, to the weal of the Commonwealth, to be used as the mere instrument by either faction, and sacrificed to the interest of either. Then as Forney's opposition is of a personal, and of a very doubtful character, let the Republican Organization of the State, remain intact, rise above personal quarrels and men, and be as true and devoted to principle now as it has been in the past and victory with our State ticket is sure to be ours in October next. It is not possible for a change of leaders now.

A change of front is what the Democrats want us to make. It would be a confession of defeat; a confession of weakness that would encourage the democracy and ensure to them a triumph at the polls in October. The influence that nominated Gen. John F. Hartranft and Gen. Harry Allen, if they are forced off the track, would defeat any other ticket that could be put in the field, and would do it, the Press to the contrary notwithstanding.

Then let all true Republicans adhere to the principles of the party, considering them of greater import than personal preferences, which should always yield to principle, and by doing so give their hearty support to the regular nominees of the party. And if Forney wants to applaud Alec M'Clure, the Greeleyite, and Liberal Reformer, and vent his spleen against Cameron, let the Republicans of Pennsylvania stand fast to their faith, and give him to understand that by so doing he cannot overthrow and destroy the Republican Organization in the old Keystone.

Since writing the above we clip the following form the Daily Telegraph.

PHILADELPHIA, June 11, 1872.
To the Editor of the TELEGRAPH:

SIR: You may state with the most perfect assurance of its truthfulness, that John W. Forney will soon carry the Press, and what is of equally small consequence, himself, over to the support of Greeley and Brown. M'Clure has been negotiating this purchase for some time and the sale is made. It should astonish no one that this parasite should betray our party. No person, or party, ever trusted Forney and escaped betrayal from that cringing sycophant. From Mrs. Forest to Andrew Johnson all who ever gave him their confidence have felt the viper's sting. I now give you this information, and I engage to write the life of this fellow, for the purpose of showing the Greeleyites what they have bought, the Republicans, the good luck they enjoy in his departure, and Forney the anger of his Creator in sparing his life in the cholera year of 1833.

ATTICUS.

TAMMANY HALL AND HORACE GREELEY.

We ask the Republicans of Centre County what they think of Horace Greeley? He has spent his whole life in fighting the Democratic party, and in advocating Protection to American Industry. He has now gone back on his friends and on the life long teaching of the Tribune. When he was nominated at Cincinnati, the possibility of his endorsement by the Democratic party, was scouted by all political thinkers. He had been, during his entire life, so radically opposed to every sort of Democratic idea, and had denounced that party with a coarseness and severity unequalled in the annals of political controversy, that no one believed, that the Democratic party had so totally lost its self-respect and had become so bankrupt in principle, that it would ask its followers to give Horace Greeley their support.

If Mr. Greeley's nomination at Cincinnati was a surprise, his endorsement by the Democracy at Baltimore, will seem to the uninitiated still more remarkable; but recent developments show that his nomination is likely to be effected.

The Democrats of New York city had plundered the city and county treasuries of upwards of a hundred millions of dollars in three years, and the indignation of the people became so great that some change was necessary. Tweed, Hall, Sweeney, Garvey and others were threatened with indictments, and though Tweed was elected to the Senate by nearly 12,000 majority, the combination was considerably broken up.

The Republican State ticket and the Legislature were elected, and the honest citizens of New York congratulated themselves that they had put an end, forever, to this extraordinary state of corruption. The thieves, however, knew better; shielded by our forms of law, by corrupt judges and corruptible juries, they soon rallied, and the consequences are, that at the very next election they will resume their power.

The thousands of their followers and hangers on who were thrown out of office by the revelations, will be all the more jealous to secure the re-instatement of their friends.

The first point with the New York politicians is to carry the State, so as to have the city again at their mercy. It was for this purpose that the Tammany Hall Republicans, who profess Republicanism for the sole purpose of shielding Democratic rascals in office, went to Cincinnati to capture that Convention and secure the nomination of Horace Greeley.

The same men and influences will, undoubtedly, endeavor to secure Greeley's endorsement at Baltimore, and if crowned with success, the system of corruption which has almost exhausted New York city will be transferred to the Nation, and the people of the United States will pay the penalty of a one thousand millions of dollars before they will succeed in driving these men from power.

But even if Horace Greeley should not be elected, New York politicians, believing that he will secure them the State Legislature in November, and the rich plunder of New York City can, in no event, loose anything by these operations.

Our people will undoubtedly understand that the political principles or restraints have no appreciable weight with these men, and that free trade or protection, civil rights or Ku-Kluxism are all alike to them.

The question is, simply, what is the demand of the hour, or of the political market? Or, as the circus keeper answered the country bumpkin when he asked, "Mister, which is the rhinoceros, and which the elephant?" "You may take either, my sonny—you have paid your money, and you take your choice.

This conspiracy for the purpose of robbing the treasury, is exceedingly dangerous and formidable. All the purchasable and revolutionary elements of society give it their hearty support, and unless the honest masses of the country can be thoroughly aroused to the danger, or shown the real nature of the contest, the Tamany conspiracy may succeed in its mission.

We trust that the Republicans of Centre will keep their eyes open, and that these machinations may be so fully exposed to their view and to the people of the whole country, that they may feel prepared to repel this desperate assault upon the Nation's honor, welfare and security.

There is no man with property and standing in the whole country North or South, East or West who can afford to have his earnings endangered, and the Republic dishonered before the eye of world, by the New York Swindlers and thieves, in league with "Honest Horace Greeley," P. G. Meek and Sam Josephs, so that they may, with greater, impunity carry on their infernal worth. Freemen of Centre County, awake, arise, and prepare to do battle for your country, and against the rebels who so recently attempted to destroy the nation and your Liberties.

OUR Democratic friends are amusing themselves concocting "Mottoes for Hartranft Banners." They might be more laudably engaged furnishing their own. Very good ones might be taken from Hon. C. R. Buckalew's advice to the drafted men at Chambersburg, in consequence of which Gen. Couch had him arrested for disloyalty. A wood cut of him in the hands of the provost guard would make a show on a transparency. When these are exhausted let them turn to his course in the Lyndall-Dechert case, and contrast it with the Gray-McClure case. Be sure to keep the reform and honest side out.—Mechanic's Journal.

WHILE I am about it I may as well say another word. The aggressive and violent temper of the Cincinnati movement is breaking the Democracy to pieces. There are many thousands of men in the party who will refuse to be dragooned or bullied into the support of that ticket. The Greeley men had better suspend their plan of operation immediately. The longer they continue it, the less likely they are to succeed, either in July or November. "We the people," the rank and file, the yeomanry of the country, cannot be driven to the polls as negroes are driven in the South by the carpet-baggers and scalawags.—Judge Black.

AN INSULT.—The Pittsburg Mail says that the nomination of ex Judge George W. Woodward of the Democracy for delegate to the Constitutional Convention is claimed to be a direct insult to naturalized citizens. He was a prominent delegate to the convention which framed the present Constitution, and in that body, it alleged, took an active part to deprive adopted citizens of their acquired rights, it is also charged that he is one of the founders of the old Know Nothing party, which has been the subject of wholesale demonstration by the Democratic leaders.

HON. SIDNEY PERHAM has been renominated for Governor by the Republicans of Maine. He is a strong man, and will lead the Republican hosts to victory. And, "as goes Maine, so goes the Union."

A NEW brand of ruin just introduced is called "Greeley Whiskey." Anything to beat Grant.

DEMOCRACY.

The Democrats of Centre, those who in part run the machine, including the 10 candidates for Sheriff, and the other would-be office holders, filled our town, and thickened our streets, and assembled in the Democratic club room, over Meek's printing office, on Friday last, to devise ways and means to sugar-coat Greeley and Brown. So that our Pennsvalley democrats could swallow them. We believe, after a full discussion, of the muddled question, and due deliberation, they concluded to swallow them with the following coating.

First, "All the post offices in the Co., must be given to us democrats, and we would just as soon take them from Greeley as from Jeff Davis, under the circumstances; which are, that there aint no hope of our getting them from or through Jeff, therefore we will take them through Greeley."

Second, "If Greeley did abuse us by saying we were ignorant asses, debauches criminals of the worst grade &c., &c., he now shows signs of repentance, and if he takes that back, and in view of the fact that we will get the offices—what we want and as the bestowing of them on us by Greeley, will atone fully for all his past sins, we think by ever-keeping in view the post offices, it will destroy the nausea of the dose, and we will swallow it."

Third, Although Greeley has been a staunch friend of the "nigger," yet, since the nigger has the right to vote, and we can't help it, why if he only votes for Greeley, and thus helps us to the offices, then the post offices, you know, will help us to swallow the nigger and Greeley both. And you know if we swallow the one we may as well swallow the other, provided we get the offices. On the whole they arrived at the conclusion to gulp down Greeley and the darkey, if they were done up in a mild solution of post offices. Meek stood aghast at the result, and the first thing he was heard to exclaim, was, "Oh who will lend, or where will I get a copy of Clark's commentaries on the Bible, and a history of the reformation." So we advise the readers of the Watchman to be on the lookout, for the conversion of the Watchman into a religious sheet. We don't have much doubt but such will be the case.

And as the editors of that sheet are somewhat musty on questions of theology, and biblical history, we hope the readers of it, will be charitable and bear with it if they make a few blunders, as its first appearance is a little cruel, and not view them with a critics eye, &c." Won't it be grand? The Democratic Watchman which was, now the, "Great Politico, Religio, Instructio, Reformatio, Temperancio, Teetotalio, Non Peculatio, sheet of the age." Edited and published by Hon. P. G. Meek, ex-member of the Harrisburg Legislature, where he assiduously served himself and constituency four terms, which is all the schooling necessary, to run successfully a Politico, &c., sheet as above. Go in Meek its a good thing.

COL. FORNEY REBUKED.

The majority of our readers, says the Columbia Spy, will remember that on Wednesday of Convention week, the Philadelphia Press contained a double leaded editorial in which Col. F. attempted to defend his relations with and opposition to the State ticket. In the article he refers to the nomination and closes with the following concentrated essence of personal venom:

What adds to our local difficulties is the oppression of a most offensive personal rule. Entrenched in office, panoplied in corporate power, arrogant from a long possession of spoils of all sorts, this rule has advanced from an exclusive reward of its slaves to a remorseless punishment of those who refuse to bow to it. There is not a country in our State in which it has not defied and outraged public opinion, either by a preference of the unworthy or by a punishment of the worthy. And now so satisfied of its control, it is seeking to pack our delegates to the National Convention by complimenting a candidate for Vice President whose only merit is that he is the son of the head of the despotism, Senator Cameron. The people expected our State Convention to declare for Schuyler Colfax or Henry Wilson for that office. It was muzzled by order. And if to-day the delegates do not vote as we have indicated, and as they were yesterday invoked to do, it will only be because the attempt has aroused the indignation of their constituents now on the ground.

To all of these charges the American Republican of West Chester presents the following graphic and unanswerable denial, which we wish every Republican in the land would read:

"The other distinguishable feature of the article, is its bitter, personal hostility towards Senator Cameron. While making objections to two of the candidates as unworthy of Republican support, and denouncing the action of the Harrisburg Convention that placed them in nomination, a studied effort is maintained to throw the whole responsibility upon Gen. Cameron. Whatever prejudices may be entertained against Gen. Cameron, either here or elsewhere, every fair-minded reader must admit that it is at least ungenerous to charge him with offences, he is not guilty. We therefore assert without fear of contradiction, that Gen. Cameron cannot be justly held responsible for anything that was done by the late State Convention. We violate no private confidence, but simply state what was known to a great majority of the leading politicians of the State, that at no time was Gen. Cameron favorable to the nomination of Gen. Hartranft for Governor. He preferred that some one else should be selected, and only yielded his own convictions because so many of his personal friends were pressing the nomination of Hartranft; he therefore absented himself from the convention and made no effort whatever to control its deliberations. Gen. Hartranft has never been a political friend of Gen. Cameron, but on the contrary, warmly advocated the claims of Andrew G. Curtin to the U. S. Senate. His nomination for Governor by the late convention was in no sense of the word a Cameron movement, as his warmest supporters were personal and political friends of ex-Governor Curtin—prominent among whom may be mentioned Wm. H. Kemble and Wm. B. Mann, Esquires, of Philadelphia—both of whom are personally known to most of the readers of this paper.

Gen. Allen, the nominee of the convention for Auditor General, has likewise always been opposed, politically, to Gen. Cameron, and supported by his vote and influence the election of Ex-Governor Curtin to the United States Senate—he being at that time a member of the lower house of our State Legislature. Neither is either of the gentlemen placed in nomination for Congress-at-large political friends of Gen. Cameron, but on the contrary, one of them, Gen. Lemuel Todd, is a bitter and implacable enemy. The only personal and political friend of Gen. Cameron among the five gentlemen placed in nomination, is Ulysses Mercur, the nominee for Judge of the Supreme Court, and whose private and public character is everywhere regarded as unexceptionable.

And yet Col. Forney complains of "offensive personal rule," and a "political despotism." Such reckless misrepresentation of recorded results, cannot possibly bring other than additional mortifications and defeat to their author.

But to serve the purposes of the astute editor of the Press, it makes but little difference what is done and what is not done by Gen. Cameron; whether he does not participate in Republican Conventions and control their deliberations, he is to be held responsible for whatever of evil that occurs. With Col. Forney it is an unalterable principle that Gen. Cameron must—

"Be d—— d if he does, and Be d——d if he dosen't."

There is no escape for the venerable Senator from the unjust criticisms of the Press, except by one course, which thus far he has not seen proper to adopt and that is to support Col. Forney's claims for a seat in the United States Senate. That is the touchstone which will command his friendship and confidence under any and all circumstances. The desire or this mark of distinction on the part of Colonel Forney, has become morbid. It haunts him by day and night, and unfortunately never without association with Gen. Cameron, who has ever been the evil genius standing between him and the goal of his highest ambition. Upon one occasion Col. Forney secured the caucus nomination for the place by a Democratic Legislature, but lo! at the very moment victory seemed secure, Gen. Cameron interposed and carried off the prize. Six years ago he again offered himself as a candidate for the place, and upon this occasion sought by the most fulsome flattery of both Cameron and Curtin, to make himself acceptable to them both as a compromise candidate. But unfortunately for him, he did not secure the honest support of a single member of the Legislature, and hence ignominiously failed in his object—that of holding the balance of power and dictating his own nomination. In the bitterness of his mortification he turned upon Gen. Cameron and denounced him through the columns of his paper in the most unmeasured terms; but more than this, he even quarreled with many of his warmest friends because they would not follow him in his unjust and senseless crusade.

It is not pleasant to expose the weaknesses and follies of your fellow-men, and therefore we will not repeat the story of Col. Forney's deposition as Clerk of the Senate, and what a suppliant he afterwards became for the slightest recognition from Senator Cameron, or the willingness he exhibited to kiss the rod that had so cruelly smote him. These acts are matters of history, and in due time will be properly recorded. It will suffice our present purpose to say that Col. Forney was afterwards appointed to the best office in the gift of the President in this State, and where he had more patronage to bestow than the two Senators upon whose favor and recommendation he was confirmed. After this he became absolutely enthusiastic in his praise of Senator Cameron, and made it a point to boast to his friends that he had dined with him, and expatiated largely upon his transcendent abilities as a wise and far seeing statesman. But so soon as the discovery was made that the able senator was not likely to lend his assistance in making Col. Forney his successor, the old personal hatred returned with renewed bitterness and force, as is unmistakably exhibited in the article above quoted.

Col. Forney also takes occasion to allude to the fact that a son of Senator Cameron had been mentioned at the Philadelphia Convention in connection with the office of Vice President. At the time of penning the article, Col. Forney knew that this was not done either with the knowledge or consent of Gen. Cameron, and that as soon as he was made acquainted with the fact, he interposed and put a stop to the movement—his son not being present. We know of no good reason, however, why a son of Senator Cameron should not aspire to the office of Vice President of this nation, if he is fit for the place, as well as any one else; and certainly Col. Forney is the last man that should complain of parents exerting influence to secure places under the Government for their sons—his own, if we are not misinformed, having been very generously provided for. It must also have occurred to the readers of the "Press" during the last ten days, that modesty in regard to trumpeting the services of a member of his own family, could not fairly be classified among Col. Forney's distinguishable peculiarities.

We entertain no personal ill-will towards Col. Forney. He has many excellent qualities as a man that we admire. But he places too high an estimate on his own abilities and personal importance. This leads him to do many foolish things that destroy his influence—not the least among which may be classed his uncalled for and bitter attacks on Senator Cameron. Whatever convictions individuals may entertain of Gen. Cameron as a man there can be but one opinion among Republicans as to his record as the representative of this great Commonwealth in the United States Senate—it has been simply unexceptionable. Scarcely a vote cast by him during the whole five years has been called into question. While discharging his full duty to the whole country, and the party he represents, he has ever kept a vigilant eye upon the interests of his own State. His great popularity and influence in the Senate is fully acknowledged, and while others talk more, none excel or even equal him in the art of execution. In that particular he stands preeminently alone.

If Col. Forney ever hopes to have his ambition gratified by occupying a seat in the United States Senate, we can assure him that it will not be through the medium of his unprovoked personal abuse and misrepresentation of Senator Cameron.

BELLEFONTE, PA.

DRINK! DRINK! DRINK!

BY LOUISE S. UPHAM.

Drink! drink! drink!
And feel hunger, and want, and strife,
And the wild despair of a drunkard's heart,
And his God-forsaken life!

There was once a happy home,
And a smile that cheered you on;
But a sad heart broke at the drunkard's curse,
And the light of home is gone.

O, well for the drunkard's child,
If with his mother he lie,
Beneath the turf that covers the mold
Where the daisies look up to the sky!

For with ribaldry, jest, and shout,
The cup to the brim is filled,
Though he sigh, as he drinks, for a vanished form,
And a voice that his passion has stilled.

Drink! drink! drink!
Till you've never a home or friend!
And drink till with liquor your brain is crazed!
Then in madness your life shall end!

ADDRESS,

DELIVERED BY REV. JAMES MULLEN, OF THE M. E. CHURCH, OF ATHENS.

[We print the speech delivered by Rev. James Mullen, formerly Pastor of the M. E. Church in this place; but now of Athens, Bradford county, Pa. Rev. Jas. Mullen is one of the finest preachers in the State, and has only to be heard to be appreciated.—EDITOR.]

Ladies and gentlemen of Athens, and you, surviving veterns of the bloodiest fight that ever rocked the homes and altars of any people, we have come to participate with you in the sad and solemn ceremonies of the day. The object which has called us together this afternoon is one that claims, deserves, and holds a warm and sacred place in every loyal American heart. You have been engaged in the work of decorating the graves of your fallen Comrades; those brave, true men, whose names and deeds shall forever be the bright, unfading stars of American history.

I miss something here. I have looked for it in vain. It is the stary flag, beneath the glorious folds of which you fought, and they died. It should be here to shed its immortal glory on this scene. (The mistake was rectified. The Old Flag was produced and the speaker went on.)

Every nation has its heroes, dead, whose memories are more imperishable than marble, and whose deeds of glorious daring impart to history the lustre of a splendid immortality. It is from the graves of the patriotic dead, that living millions gather sacred incentives to heroic deeds in the defence and propogation of civil liberty. The most luminous points in the history of Republican America are those which embody the splendid story of her patriotism, which has been so brilliantly signalized amid suffering and danger, on land and sea. The devotion of her people to an unfettered exercise of political freedom, and their loyal regard for the sacredness of legitimate governmental authority, have beautified the path of liberty, and given to the American name a world-wide and imperishable renown.

No country under heaven has ever been the seat and centre of such acts of deathless glory; the embodiment of such sublime devotion to the right and the true; such patient, uncomplaining submission, to suffering in defence of righteous principle, as this, our own land, a land consecrated by a baptism of precious blood drawn from the veins of patriotic thousands who sprang to the front in obedience to the trumpet's call, to strike for the cause of liberty and the imperilled interests of the Nation; a land whose hills and vallies, have rocked to the thunder of battles, and blazed with the light of victories, the fame and issue of which shall never die; a land, whose broad bosom has been furrowed over with the graves of patriot hosts, who fought and fell that the flag we love might still float on, the cherished emblem of a nation without a slave to stain its history with the story of injuries unredressed, or curse the soil with the sweat of his unrequited labor.

The dead are speaking to us to-day, though their pale lips move not, and their stammering tongues are silent in the grave. But for all that, they are speaking to us now. Their words come, not to our ears, but to our hearts, and they come wrapped in the sacred memories of the near past; memories that have been woven as it were, like threads of fire, into a history the splendor of which shall live and beam until nations are no more. They come to us through the finished record of the lonely watch by a thousand smouldering camp fires; in the story of the weary march, the bloody fight, and dearly purchased victory. The words and admonitions of the hallowed and martyred dead come to us this afternoon, not through the spirit-like whisperings of the winds as they talk with the old hemlocks on the crest of yonder mountain, but they come through the voiceless teachings of their finished labors. They come to us in the pearly tear-drops, and murmured blessings, and God-painted flowers with which the living crown and consecrate the resting place of the immortal dead. They speak to you and me in the silent but impassioned eloquence of deeds that need no "sculptored marble," no "storied urn," or "animated bust," to keep them burning, like coals of living fire, in the nation's memory and the nation's heart. The parts they played in the greatest and bloodiest political drama ever enacted in any age or any country, possess an inherent immortality that will flash and blaze in augmenting grandeur while a star remains to bless and beautify the bright blue heaven of yonder flag.

The people, the people will not forget the men who died amidst the smoke and carnage of battle that liberty might live; that treason might be forever crushed and traitors doomed to eternal infamy; died, aye, fell down in glorious death that the crown of republican manhood might not be torn from the nation's brow; that the fame of Washington might shine forever on the path of nations, the untarnished and splendid heritage of American freemen, and not of Americans alone, but of the friends of liberty in every country under heaven, where tyrany has not crushed a resisting manhood into bare submisson to injury, insult and disgrace. The people will not forget the fathers, and sons, and brothers, the bright eyed youths, and grey-haired sires who left home, and all they loved, to stand, and fight, and fall for God, liberty, and civilization. O, no, they will not forget the men who were carried from the fierce and terrible fight with their garments rolled in blood; their bodies torn and shattered by shot and shell, a priceless sacrifice, the offering up of which made Freedom weep, and Justice bleed upon her throne. They will not forget the sleeping braves whose sepulchers will be the shrines, the hallowed mecas, around which to day thousands of loyal men and loyal women will gather, with floral offerings, as you have done, and, in fitting language, paint the splendid story of their lives, and praise and magnify the merit which centres in and clusters around the victory they helped to win; a victory so bright and full of blessings that it shall stand like a shaft of fire to burn confusion into the very heart of treason for all time to come; yea, until the judgment thunder shall call unpunished traitors to their just deserts at the bar of an impartial God. There are unpunished traitors walking abroad in the land to-day, an evidence of the misplaced sympathy of a too indulgent government. They are free to go where they please, and come when they please; free to sneer at the garlands with which you and others have crowned a soldiers tomb to-day; free to walk with unblushing impudence over the dust of your dead heroes; free to pause by that patriot's grave, and, grinding their accursed heels into the sod which protects his bones, insult his memory and curse the cause for which he died; free to deck the dishonored graves of the men who lost their lives in striking against that flag, and the blood-bought privileges—the sacred rights which it guarantees to you and me. But, though they go unpunished to-day, and will stand up to-morrow, with ten thousand stains upon their manhood, while this nation is doing reverence to the graves and memory of her martyred children, their punishment has not been revoked forever. God lives. Eternal justice is neither dead nor asleep. There is a hand that reaches beyond the blunders and maudlin sympathy of parties and cabinets. In that hand the bolt of vengeance sleeps, from that hand it shall spring forth, winged with the speed of a lightning shaft, when the hour of retribution shall have come. Let them live, then; we will tolerate them as we would tolerate any other nuisance, we must. Let them stand, and sink, and rot where they are. The memory and glory of our patriotic dead, and the lustre of our stary flag are above and beyond their polluted touch. Our country, victorious and undivided, is a splendid evidence that the loyal element in the hearts of the people is strong enough to preserve these States, intact, glorious and free forever. We are "More than conquorer," through the help of God, and the many brave hearts and strong hands that are in the dust to-day; hence, we can afford to tolerate when we can neither respect nor pity.

We are standing in the presence of the unseen but immortal dead. They are around us everywhere, on the hill-side where the fox-glove rings its beautiful bells, and in the vallies where the daisies blossom.

They sleep like "Warriors taking their rest,
With their blood-stained blankets around them."

They have gone from the tent and the field to the cold, lonely and silent bivouac of the grave. They have gone, and

"For them no more the blazing hearth shall burn,
Nor busy house-wife ply her evening care;
No children run to lisp their sire's return,
Or climb his knee, the envied kiss to share."

They have gone, and yet they are with us, and as fancy calls their shadowy forms from the mists of the grave, we are met face to face by a duty from which no lapse of time can ever absolve this nation—the duty of guarding, inviolate, the principles for which they died. This rises above every external expression of our regard, rises in awful grandeur, and with startling import, and, linking itself with our destiny as a nation, challenges every patriot to a careful, candid, and serious consideration of the mighty issue which it involves, namely: Shall the loyal living keep the old flag where the loyal dead have left it—floating in triumph over a confederation of undivided and independent States.

This is the great burden, the central force, the crowning significance of the solemn question which the past is forcing upon us now, as we stand on the threshold of the future, with the bones and graves of nearly half a million dead soldiers scattered over our hills and vallies, and ten thousand bullet-riddled battle flags folded away in the archives of the nations glory.

It is right that we should honor the heroes gone. It is fitting that we should strew their graves with flowers, fresh, beautiful, and pure, gathered from the soil on which they fought, and in which they sleep. But it is more supremely important, both for the honor of the dead, and the interests of posterity, that "we who remain," should keep a jealous vigil around the blood-cemented ark of civil liberty, which was rescued from the heat and fire of the fight, by the men who are cold in their graves to-day, lest the gloved and cruel hand of treason should rend the mantle of our present peace, and call us to the field of death to take up the injuries and insults of the bloody pest, with a foiled and baffled foe, fight all our battles o'er again.

As a nation we have closed the gulf of danger which the dark and dreadful spirit of rebellion opened up in the path of our progress; we have left the field of struggle, where the cannon thundered and the sabre flashed, far behind us, and, with the memory of past sufferings, wrongs and sorrows folded away in our heart of hearts, are marching forward, bearing our scarred and battered nationality on to a glorious and God-appointed destiny.

But, though the battle has ceased, and the trumpet is still, and the graves of our heroes are green, and peace makes her home in the land, we are, nevertheless, forbidden to lie down in unguarded repose, "Lest a worse thing come upon us." The danger has been rebuked and averted but not destroyed. The clouds have rolled away, stained with some of the best blood of the nation, and written over with a record of suffering for which history has no paralell; but if we sleep, or put confidence in traitors they may return to claim a fresh baptism from the veins of the loyal people. May God, and the wakeful, watchful patriotism of our country prevent it!

I cannot shut out from my mind the conviction that we have reached, but not passed, the most important—yea, the most fearfully momentous point in the path of our politicol pregress. The policy of the present must and will shape and determine the character of our future history, and decide the great question of national perpetuity, liberty and union.

I have said there is danger in our path, of sufficient vitality to keep the patriotism of the nation on its guard; I repeat it, and no serious thoughtful mind will dispute it. No student of American history, in its recent formation; no careful observer of events will fail to discover that there is an element in the political circles of American Society which is in both secret and open antagonism with the true interests of these States and the progress of human liberty. There is in our very midst an under current of destructive, anti-republican ideas and principals, conceived, fostered, and matured in the school of the slave arristocracy. The great rebellion, which like a mighty earthquake, shook these states, and sent a vibration of terror to the remotest bounds of civilized life; the rebellion with its five hundred thousand bloody graves and broken hearts was the legitimate progeny of these very ideas and principles developed in the political creeds of individuals and factions. It is clear that a disloyal element, pregnant with the spirit of danger, and fired with the temper of destruction, which, though crushed by the battle blows of our bannered ranks, and now fettered by the vigilance of the loyal masses, lurks in our midst, muttering threats of vengeance; and we owe it to God, to ourselves, to our children, to the rights and interests of humanity everywhere, that we guard faithfully and well, all the avenues of approach to the citadel of our liberties, and fountain of our national life.

There may be battles to fight, dangers to meet, and fierce combinations of evil to quell in the dear future, but I have too much faith in God, and too much confidence in the great and tried aggregate of American patriotism, to believe that the future of our country will be other than a splendid, continuous and successful exposition of the true idea of Republican Government, as handed down to us from our loyal fathers.

If we shall forget what we have suffered in the path over which we have come to our present glory; if we shall forget the past, with the long, dark night of pain and fear; its white-faced dead, and bleeding wounds, then we will be unfit to live beneath the flag for whose stripes and stars so many thousand of our countrymen have died. After what it cost our fathers to found a confederacy of such magnificent proportions and splendid promise as this, on the bosom of which our cradles were rocked; after what it has cost their posterity in treasure and blood, to mantain and perpetuate a birthright so grand, it would seem to be a moral, as well as a political impossibility, that we should ever stain our character, shade the glory of our history, and repudiate our vows before the God of Nations and the Altar of Liberty, by a base and fatal forfeiture of a position for which the men of Bunker Hill and Gettysburg deemed it a proud and glorious privilege to die.

Every stone in the temple of American Liberty; every star and stripe of the flag that floats in the light of this beautiful May, are lustrous with the prestige of deeds that claim an immortality which eclipses the brightest shafts of Spartan valor and Spartan glory. Where is there another country under heaven, beside our own Columbia, in the soil of which sleep the bones of so many thousands who fell in defence of liberty? Where the country, whose hills and vallies have echoed to the tread of more heroic ranks of living men, than have the hills and vallies of our own? From "Atlanta to the sea," from the snows of Maine to the golden slopes of the Pacific, more than three hundred thousand narrow graves tell where our soldiers and heroes are sleeping. And why are they sleeping? Why did they go from their bright firesides, and the warm embraces of kindness and friends? Why did they leave mothers wives and children? Why did they leave all the endeared and cherished associations of social life to lay their heads on pillows of blood in the shadow and chill of the tomb? It was because they loved their country better than life. It was because they preferred death and a grave to a life without honor, and a country dismembered and ruined for ever. It was because they went forth to conquer treason, having first registered a patriotic oath to avenge their country's insulted honor, or leave their bones beneath her altar to cry to heaven for vengeance on the heads of her enemies and their murderers. Hallowed be the memory, and potent the example, of the dead, for ever; cursed, thrice cursed in the presence of all men be the names and record of the traitors who made the death and burial of your friends, and mine, a national necessity!

It is a fitting question to ask ourselves as we stand to-day, in such close sympathy with the memories of the battle and the dead, that the invisible presence of our slaughtered hecatombs can almost be felt;—I say it is a fitting question to ask at this time: What have we lost by the terrible war from which we have emerged, scathed but not destroyed? What have we lost? In treasure, enough to found an Empire, and buy a crown; in blood, more, a thousand times more, than a human mind can compute. What have we lost? Go to Gettysburg and a hundred other fields fiercely fought and bravely won, and ask the spirits that brood over the ashes of the slain. What have we lost? Ask the Recording Angel who with pen of fire has traced the mighty record of our sufferings and our wrongs. What have we lost? O! Eternal Justice! Who can answer a question like this? The mighty aggregate is lettered on every American heart; it is registered in the Archives of Eternity, and, in the day of judgment, will be unfolded and read in the presence of the nations.

What have we saved by the struggle which has wrapped our history in a bloody immortality? We have saved the national life. We have saved the national honor. We have saved our flag and avenged its insulted glory. We have unmasked our enemies, and the country shall know and despise them for ever. We have developed elements of national power far surpassing the vivid conceptions of the most enthusiastic patriot; and we have stirred the envy and excited the suprise of other nations by the brilliancy of our achievements in the field, and the magnitude of our financial triumphs in the cabinet. All this splendid sum of national wealth we have, through the assistance of God and the patriotism of our people, and the heroism of our armies, gained; and now putting a foot upon the neck of treason, and crushing it into the slime of its native hell, we can point to the record of the mighty past, and holding it up before the nations, defy the world to drive us from the rock and glory of the present.

The last twelve years of American History form the most splendid prodigy in the progress of political events. Within that brief, but issue crowded, period, the energies of the great national heart have worked out the accomplishment of what may be very justly regarded as a most wonderful, grand, stupendous mission. Treason has been rebuked and liberty lifted in triumph above her enemies round about her. A rebellion, conceived and fought in the unholy interests of the slave power, has been crushed before the burning indignation of the people, and the great charter of human rights made broad enough to cover the heads of all. A true and rapid development of American ideas has revolutionized the stereotyped theories and systems of centuries, by which a fresh and mighty impetus has been given to civilization, and a new phase, to much of the polical and martial character of the nations. Mooted questions of international law have been settled; the right of beligerents defined, and the duties of neutral powers clearly interpreted in the light of events springing from our recent great and terrible struggle. By the construction and successful workings of our monitors and iron-clads we have developed and established a new feature in naval warfare, and have shattered the wooden battle ships of Europe, as truly as though we had blown them out of their respective waters.

With one hand we have fought a battle and conquered a foe of gigantic proportions, and with the other accomplished the more peaceful and glorious work of laying down the iron bands of the great Pacific Railway, the last spike in which has been driven home amid the fireing of Cannon, and ringing of bells, and blazing of bonfires, and strains of music, and bursts of eloquence, and thanksgiving to God. In the completion of this great enterprise—greater than the glory of a thousand battles for conquest and plunder. Commerce, civilization, liberty and religious progress have become measurably debtors to the spirit of American Enterprise. China has been brought almost to our very doors, as it were, and hereafter, her costly merchandise will reach the port at Philadelphia in fifty days after, leaving the anchorage of Pekin.

Who can tell the value of this achievement? Who can measure of limit the influence which it shall have upon the future of our country, and by reaction upon the world. When a hundred years to come shall have crossed the path of our nation's progress, and left their impress on our institutions, our character, and our flag, a hundred cities will be standing in the magnificence of architectural strength and beauty, filled with all the splendid resources of wealth and the productions of art; the whole grand aggregate underlaid and permeated by the irrepressible, go-ahead-ativeness of the American Character, illuminated and made attractive by social refinement and intellectual culture; and who shall say that fifty millons of souls, bot with the fire of liberty, will not be throbbing all along that mighty high-way, which I believe is destined to bind the hearts, and hopes, and interests of our people in a bond of union, so close and firm, that no power or faction, or influence, apart from the fatality of our own unfaithfulness, shall ever be able to break it, while the sun shines or nations have an existance.

Where is the history, ancient or modern that shows progress and achievement like this in the midst of circumstances so unpropitious. In less than eight short years we have conquered a million armed and determined rebels, struck the fetters from four millions of suffering slaves, and accomplished the construction of three thousand miles of the most magnificent railroad in the world, and that, too, in the face of difficulties that would have staggered the faith of any nation, not rocked in the cradle of danger and inured to hardships like our own.

And was it not for this magnificent and unparallelled result, our heroic thousands fought—those noble men whose grassy graves a nation crowns with flowers, and when whose memory millions shall forever bless and honor? Yes! it was for this they marched and fought; for this they bared their bosoms to the blades and bullets of the foe. They struck not alone to avert the disgrace of a battered banner, and preserve to the country the glory of an undivided flag; but they also struck for the future development of our national resources—they struck for christianity, civilization, liberty, literature, art, mechanics, commerce, and agriculture; they struck for "Right of way to the Pacific," and the force of their battle blows shall send a vibration to the remotest future of time. Such is an epitome of the finished labors of the men who are steeping to rise up no more until the Reveille of Eternity shall call them to the great review of nations and of deeds. It is a glorious; its splendor commands the homage every heart, and its perpetuity the defence of every arm.

Great men! They sank in death that the flag might float in glory. Great men! Aye, their record claims for them this verdict, and, for a thousand years to come, history, at every, stage of human events, shall lift its voice, and pointing to the graves of those we "delight to honor," repeat the sentence: "Great men!"

Yes, they were great in the field, and they are great in the tomb. The least of all the thousands, who sleep around us to-day, greater, a million times greater—dead and in the dust, than the proudest traitor who lives and walks abroad, a caricature upon the nation's pity. So help me Heaven, but I'd rather, far, be one of those true men who fired a carbine and swung a saber for the old flag, than to be a living Davis with millions to command, and the memories of the past to haunt me with their bloody voices to a traitor's grave, and a traitors hell!

Great men! Wherever Freedom's vestal fires burn, their names and deeds shall find an immortality of great renown and as long as there is one loyal heart left to throb beneath that flag, their memory shall not be without a chancel and a shrine. In after years, when we are old or dead—in after years, when stranger feet shall tread these paths, and stranger hands shall kindle fires on the hearths around which you gather now; in after years, when heads are gray and graves are green, and poets sing of days that were, and talk of swords that flashed at Gettysburg and Mission Ridge—the glory of our patriot dead will be as bright as now.

Here, amid the grandeur of these hills repose the bones of some who stood in the breech for freedom; and, although no lettered shaft stands white and cold by their humble graves, to-day, their memory, nevertheless, shall defy oblivion's touch, and live and shine for ever more, because their country is their monument, and what friend of liberty could wish a grander tribute to their fame.

What consecrated acres compose the burial places of the nation's dead! Why there's "hallowed ground" on every hand. Where e'er we turn or step, almost, there's hallowed ground, and why? Because the ashes of the hero sleeps in death beneath the sod. There's hallowed ground where e'er the muffled drum has beat the funeral dirge, or "Comrades fired the farewell shot" over the grave of a soldier buried. That's hallowed ground on which, to-day you have strewn your flowers, a tribute from the living to the dead, a pledge that while you live they shall not be forgotten.

May the memory of our fallen thousands be forever green as these mountains that smile in their beauty, to-day. And may our hearts ever be open to the influence of their example, and, like them, may we stand up for the Old Flag, as long as we can stand, and then prove by our fall, that a true American prefers a glorious death on the field, with a sword in his grasp, to a life, however luxurious, or a peace however profound, purchased at the price of disunion and eternal disgrace.

REPUBLICAN STATE PLATFORM.

Below will be found the Resolutions adopted by the convention which placed in nomination Gen John F. Hartranft, Hon. Ulysses Mercur, Gen. Harrison Allen and the entire State Ticket. The Resolutions were written by that clear headed and efficient Republican—Russel Errett, Esq., and have the true ring. Republicans, workingmen and all honest Democrats, can safely stand upon this platform. Let them be carried out in good faith and there need be no fears entertained in regard to the salvation and perpetuity of the government either State or national:

1. That we reaffirm our devotion to the principles of the Republican party, and our belief that the continued existence of that party is necessary to the maintenance and success of those principles. The grand and fundamental idea of the equality of all men in political rights is not professed by any other party, and can be sustained faithfully only by those who are sincerely committed to it.

2. That the adoption of the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth amendments to the Constitution of the United States has not been sufficiently acquiesced in by all to render certain and secure their permanent incorporation in that instrument, and hence the administration of the government can safely be entrusted only to that party which is heartily, and beyond question, committed to them, and the policy necessary to put them into successful operation.

2. That we are now, more than ever, called to sustain the policy of national protection to American industry. If the laborer is worthy of his hire, and a fair day's work entitles the worker to a fair day's pay, we must continue to throw the protecting arm of the government around those who toil for their daily bread. The protective policy alone makes labor contented and capital secure. It renders employment certain, and pay ample and satisfactory; whilst free trade means that our laborers and mechanics must either work for lower wages or that our factories should be closed through foreign competition, and the workingmen of the country deprived of employment.

4. That the public lands belong to the people, and should be reserved for the people. We, therefore, pronounce most decidedly against any further appropriation of the public lands in behalf of corporations or individuals. All lands not sold according to law should be open to preemption and actual settlement.

5. That we demand a continued adherence to the policy hitherto pursued, under Republican auspices, in our State and in the nation, of a steady and gradual reduction of the public debt. The interests of the people require that the most rigid economy should be practiced in the administration of both the Nation and the State governments, and that taxes should be reduced in both as rapidly as is consistent with the honorable maintenance of the public credit, and the certain extinguishment of all the public debt.

6. That we are earnestly in favor of the earliest possible removal of the duties on tea and coffee, and urge the prompt passage of the bill for that purpose now before Congress.

7. That we heartily approve of the act of Gen. Grant in giving a trial to the plan of civil service reform. We demand that the plan, or any other that may be substituted in its place as better, shall have a fair and unembarrassed trial, that every effort shall be made to secure competent men for public service, and that honesty and incorruptibility shall be deemed qualifications as essential as competency and intelligence.

8. That the Republican party has given full evidence during the past eleven years of its ability to administer the government honestly, faithfully and successfully. It has, within that time, maintained the honor of our National flag at home and abroad; preserved the Union from disruption and restored it in its integrity; secured to all classes and conditions of men the rights given to them by their Maker, and having proclaimed liberty throughout all the land, unto all the inhabitants thereof, has given to that proclamation the full effect to which it was entitled; and we therefore, in its name, claim from the people a continuance of their confidence, and fearlessly challenge their scrutiny into its acts.

9. That we point with pride to the record of Gen. Grant's administration of the National Government. Not only has the weight of internal taxation been almost wholly removed from the people's shoulders, but three hundred millions of the national debt have been paid off—a result never before attained by any other people under like circumstances, and for which we are indebted to the rigid honesty strict economy and sterling integrity which the President has brought to the administration of a national affairs.

10. That we present his name for renomination to the Presidency confident that the people will again rally to the support of the man who so nobly fought their battles; who, under the guidance through its struggle to maintain its existence, and who has since so successfully administered the affairs of the government as to command general admiration, at home and abroad.

11. That we will stand by the government in the foreign policy so firmly marked out and adhered to by President Grant. The honor of the nation, we feel, is safe in his hands, and the flag under which he never suffered defeat, will not be dishonored while he is kept in the front.

12. That we congratulate the people of Pennsylvania on the final accomplishment of the call for a convention to revise and amend the Constitution of the State and we earnestly urge upon our friends to see that delegates are chosen in their respective districts committed to the policy of incorporating in that instrument a clear and decisive prohibition of special legislation.

13 That we hereby declare our opposition to every effort to withdraw from the sinking fund of the Commonwealth, either by substitution, exchange or otherwise, any of the bonds, securities or moneys now pledged to it, and through it to the payment of the public debt of the Commonwealth, and our inflexible determination to preserve the same, inviolably, for the fulfillment of the Commonwealth's obligations.

14. That the oil producing, mining, lumbering and manufacturing interest of the State require protection from the efforts of dangerous combinations, and that such laws should be enacted by the General Assembly of this Commonwealth as will protect said interest, both in their development and the transportation of their productions to market.

15. That the thanks of our party are due to Governor John W. Geary, under whose lead our principles have twice been successfully vindicated in Pennsylvania; the State debt has been reduced during his administration; our soldiers orphans have been carefully cherished and educated; and our laws have been efficiently and wisely enforced. Under the necessity of parting with him as Governor, in conformity with the Constitution of the State, Governor Geary carries with him in his retirement the heartfelt wishes of its people for his future prosperity and happiness.

16. That we present with peculiar pride and especial confidence of their success, the names of Gen. John F. Hartranft for Governor, Ulysses Mercur for Supreme Judge, Gen. Harrison Allen for Auditor General, and the gentlemen this day named for delegates at large to the Constitutional Convention. They are all men worthy of an active and ardent support at the hands of the Republican party, and we call upon our friends throughout the State to rally as one man to secure their triumphant election.

17. That the President of this Convention, in connection with the candidates this day nominated for State officers, appoint the chairman and one Secretary of the State Central Committee, and that the State Committee be made up on the basis adopted last year, and the two years preceding.

AN HONEST DEMOCRAT.

Our Democratic friends are proclaiming very loudly that Mr. Buckalew is an honest Democrat and can be relied upon in all emergencies. This may be true, but let us examine the facts.

During the administration of Mr. Buchanan he was his warmest friend and was sent by him to South American as a minister. He returned in time to take an active part in the troubles at the closing scenes of Buchanan's administration, and defended him through all the robberies connected with that administration. He was honest in carrying out Buchanan's principles.

During the war, whilst the gallant Hartranft was fighting for his country, Buckalew was fighting for the rights of the South. He was honestly carrying out Democratic principles.

Two years ago, when the Democrats wanted a majority in the Senate, and Billy M'Mullin and his crowd had returned Mr. Dechert as Senator from the First district by the most outrageous frauds ever committed, Mr. Buckalew stepped forward and prevented the election of Mr. Dechert being contested in the mode pointed out by law, and placed his name to a report that it was inexpedient to throw out returns of precincts or districts where fraudulent votes were proven. This was an honest Democratic measure, and Mr. Buckalew exhibited again great honesty of purpose.

This year of 1872, the Republicans had honestly elected a majority of Senators to that body, but the Democrats were not content with that honestly expressed will of the people, and that party induced one A. K. M'Clure to contest the seat of a Republican elected by a majority of over nine hundred. The law for the selection of committees on contested seats, providing that the name of the person whose seat is contested, and that of the Speaker cannot be placed in the box, gave the Democrats an advantage in the selection of the committee, and a Democratic committee was drawn in the case. Mr. Buckalew was placed at the head of that committee, and after hearing all the evidence, no sufficient grounds being discovered to displace the Republican, Mr. Buckalew ignored his report made one year before and threw out the entire vote of ten whole districts, in order to displace Mr. Gray from his seat, and admit one who would support Democratic measures. This action may be honest in the eyes of Democrats, but the people who have watched these outrageous proceedings do not exactly agree with them.

If Mr. Buckalew has ever advocated any other honest measures, we have not heard of them as yet.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

Johnson's Anodyne Liniment may be used to advantage where any Pain Killer is desirable. In cases of severe cramps and pains in the stomach, it is undoubtedly the best article that can be used.

Habitual constipation leads to the following results: Inflammation of the kidneys, sick and nervous headache, billiousness, dyspepsia, indigestion, piles loss of appetite and strength; all of which may be avoided by being regular in your habits, and taking, say one of Parsons' Purgative Pills nightly, for four or six weeks.

WENDELL PHILLIPS.

GREELEY ANOTHER ANDY JOHNSON.

Wendell Phillipps has written the following letter to S. P. Cummings, a labor reform politician on the political situation. It is characteristic:

You know I am neither a Republican nor a Grant man. Whom shall I vote for, or whether I shall vote at all, I do not know. But certainly as against Greeley I am for Grant. We have had one Andy Johnson; I will not run the risk in getting another in Horace Greeley I want a man with some decided principles. Greeley never had any. Besides I consider Greeley a secession candidate. I believe the plot to nominate him was hatched by southern white rebels more than a year ago, and has been mainly nursed by them. I advise any one who means to vote for him to find out first what agreement have been made by Mr. Greeley's friends with Jeff Davis and his staff as to office and patronage. I am perfectly certain that there is a distinct mutual understanding, if not a positive contract between them. If Horace Greeley enters the White House, Jeff Davis will be as truly part of the Administration as Seward was in Lincoln's day. No negro can vote, for Greeley who values his life or property or cares for his race. If, by a frown of Providence, he is elected, I shall advise every Southern loyalist to load the revolvers that Grant's arrest of North Carolina Kuklux has allowed to be laid aside. If he is elected let the negroes live in squads of fifty, whom no coward will dare shoot down, and show no property after sunset. Lonely men will be shot down and no black will own a mule forty-eight hours if any rebel knows the fact.

As for Adams, I do not fear him—an aristocrat by birth and a Democrat from perverseness—the love of money makes such union possible. He is a Democrat, but afraid to confess his creed or wear his uniform. If any party allows him to lead it he will lead it to its grave, as all the Adamses have always done. Old John Adam's vanity, bigotry and hatred of Hamilton put the federal army into its tomb. John Quincy Adam's administration was the deathblow of the Whig party then called Republicans. The light which gilds the Adamses is that of sunset. Chatham said Sir William Young's voice was the death-knell of his country. The breath of an Adams has the chill of the charnel-house it. Let them nurse their money bags like timid misers, and allow bolder and more unselfish men, whose foreheads are lit by the rising sun, to help the world forward, undisturbed by their greedy ambition or their querulous crotchets. For a loyal administration to protect the negro, awe the rebel, and give the workingman a chance, Grant's little finger is worth a baker's dozen of Greeley's. Yours.

WENDELL PHILLIPS.

COL. FORNEY, says the Pittsburg Commercial, gives the reasons for his disaffection. He says that Cameron has been "slandering the editor of the Press, in season and out of season, by misrepresenting his course and misinterpreting his motives." In regard to which it is only to be observed that the "editor of the Press" has up to within a few weeks been either a craven supporter or a silent excuser of Cameron, and has chosen the moment for making his fight with him when Grant and the Republican party only would be hurt. But the best reason of all why Col. Forney is disaffected is the "fourth" of the series, which is as follows:

"Because human affairs and fates are uncertain, and there may be another Chicago fire."

The force and pertinency of this reason may not be apparent at first, but it doubtlesss possesses a deep and terrible meaning. As Col. Forney gives notice that he may enlarge upon these reasons, we shall watch for the performance with breathless interest. In seriousness; it is scracely probable that any considerable number of Republicans in the State will feel it to be their duty to go over to the Democarts because Mr. Cameron has "misrepresented" Col. Forney and "misinterpreted" his motives. The Colonel is doubtless a very important individual, but not quite so important that the party should be beaten and General Grant defeated that he may gain his quarrel with Mr. Cameron. There are very many Republicans who like him have serious complaints to make against Mr. Cameron; but few, we conclude, will deem it either wise or patriotic to undertake to settle their account with him at such a cost. The man who burnt his barn with all its precious contents to get rid of a wasp's nest was not less sensible than is Col. Forney.

THE New Orleans Times, the publication of which was so abruptly terminated by Farragut's fleet in front of the city, is now uniting with the New York Tribune in adoring "the simple-hearted and natural Horace Greeley." It devotes a recent article to proving that its hero doesn't wear his pants stuffed in his boots, as unscrupulous maligners have asserted.

THE first locomotive used in England, nearly forty years ago, now stands on a pedestal at the Darlington railway station.

SUMNER AT HOME.

LETTER FROM WILLIAM LLOYD GARRISON—THE SENATOR'S SPEECH PRONOUNCED ILL-JUDGED, ILL-TIMED AND EXTRAVAGANT IN ITS CHARGES—SUMNER NO LONGER THE TRUE REPRESENTATIVE OF MASSACHUSETTS.

BOSTON JUNE 3.—The following letter has appeared in print.

ROXBURY, June 1, 1872.

DEAR MR. SUMNER: I owe it to you to say, with all the frankness which sober friendship justifies, that I have carefully read your speech in sharp arraignment of the President, and my conviction is that it is ill-judged, ill-timed, and so extravagant in its charges and bitter in its personalities as to neutralize whatever just criticism can be found in it. It will assuredly serve the purposes of the worst foes the cause of impartial freedom has most to fear, very many of them now rallying under the banner of liberal Republicanism; but the loyal, liberty-upholding party with which you have hitherto been proved to be identified will peruse it with deep regret, if not with unfeigned astonishment. Certainly you do not represent Massachusetts in this sweeping impeachment. Her Republican people are almost a unit for the re-election of the man whom you attempt to stain with crime and cover with infamy. You cannot separate Gen. Grant from the party which put him in the Presidential chair, and which means to keep him in it, if it is possible, another term, being satisfied as to his ability, integrity and patriotism; and therefore, in stigmatising him as a venal self-seeker and an unscrupulous usurper, you virtually pronounce it to be equally corrupt and untrustworthy. This you have a right to do on your own responsibility if you must, but in so doing you will find yourself for the first time in marked opposition to the sentiment of Massachusetts, as its Senator in Congress, and surrounded by allies who have been heretofore your deadliest enemies. Occupying as I do an outside position, I write this not under party bias, and only because I feel constrained in this manner to free my mind as a proof of my friendship. Receive it in the spirit which has dictated it. Faithfully and respectfully, yours,

[Signed] WM. LLOYD GARRISON.

To Hon. Charles Sumner.

COL. A. K. MCCLURE, in a card printed in the Philadelphia Press, denies the statement made in the Harrisburg Telegraph, that while the Convention was in session in Philadelphia he asserted that the Press would support Greeley for President. He asserts, furthermore, that Forney endeavored to persuade him not to go to Cincinnati, but "await developments which he hoped would make the reunion of the Republicans possible." Col. McClure does not say what the hoped-for "developments" were. In concluding he remarks that although he and Col. Forney have frequently differed in the past, they "have been friends—a title," Colonel McClure pathetically remarks, "I value more and more, as time and perfidy leave their monuments behind me." We think we see the tearful two embracing—a spectacle calculated to melt the hearts of all true patriots!—Pittsburg Commercial.

IMPORTANT.—The following, says the Pittsburg Chronicle, are among the more important laws which passed the Legislature of Pennsylvania, last session:

"An act to allow all defendants to be witnesses in their own behalf in all cases not above misdemeanor, except in indictments for perjury or forgery.

All elections for borough and township officers shall be held at the places designated before the passage of the acts of 1869 and 1871, except where otherwise provided for by a decree of the court or statute.

The State Superintendent is authorized to appoint two trustees for each State Normal School.

Enabling married women to purchase sewing machines without the consent of their husbands and making the contract binding.

An act authorizing courts to grant charters of incorporation to water, gas, town hall and market companies and to associations for the preservation of birds, fish and game."

DEMOREST'S Monthly Magazine for July contains an ample store of refreshing literature, including a continuation of "Beck at the Farm," by Neil Forrest; choice poems and music, splendid illustration, fashions, household, etc., etc., and a four page engraving of the City of Vienna, the scene of the World's Exposition in 1872. Price, $3 yearly. Published by W. Jennings Demorest, 838 Broadway, New York.

THE Bar Room Remedy for weakness of the stomach is a dose of Rum Bitters. They are surcharged with Fusel Oil, a deadly element, which is rendered more active by the pungent astringents with which it is combined. If your stomach is weak, or your liver or bowels disordered, tone, strengthen and regulate them with VINEGAR BITTERS, a pure "Vegetable Stomach Corrective and Aperient;" free from alcohol, and capable of infusing new vitality into your exhausted and disordered system.

A NEW CANDIDATE FOR PUBLIC FAVOR.

THE NEW VICTOR SEWING MACHINE!

THE NEW VICTOR SEWING MACHINE!

BY ONE WHO KONWS.

A good sewing Machine I long have sought,
And tried them all but found it not,
Until the New Victor it came out,
And now I have one without a doubt.

It runs so easy and sews so nice,
I would not be without it for any price.
Its self-setting needle is so neat,
And everything else is most complete.

It sews through thin, it sews through thick,
And when you sew it never sticks,
So when you sew, you have no trouble—
I'd have a VICTOR if it's price were double.

READ! READ! READ!

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO ALL WHO ARE IN WANT OF A SEWING MACHINE.

The New Sewing Machine VICTOR has not its equal in the world for family sewing. It is made of the finest material and of most perfect finish, and no pains or expense is spared to make the Victor Sewing Machine, in all its points, fitted to meet the wants of every family in the land.

TWELVE GOOD REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD BUY THE VICTOR:

1.—It is the only Lock-Stitch Machine that has its needle Self-Setting.
2.—All lost motion can be readily taken up in all its parts.
3.—The needle being Straight, and Self-Setting, much of the perplexity and trouble to new beginners is avoided, as the needle cannot be set wrong.
4.—It has a positive Thread Controller and Tension, which enables it to sew with equal precision, from the most delicate texture to the heaviest material.
5.—It uses with equal facility Silk, Linen, or Cotton Thread.
6.—It uses the same size thread on the under as on the upper side, and sews across the heaviest seam, or from one to many thicknesses of cloth, without change of needle, tension or thread.
7.—There are no springs or cog wheels to break and get out of order.
8.—It is the simplest and strongest family sewing machine of all the varieties now in use.
9.—Every motion is positive, and it runs light and easy.
10.—The shuttle is carried on an independent table, which prevents its wearing out, and at the same time does away with oiling, thus avoiding greasing the work.
11.—It is simple in its construction, and the most inexperienced person can operate and regulate it.
12.—Its price is as low as any other first-class machine, and should be tried by all who want a good, reliable machine. This new machine can be seen at the large Ware Room, where all are invited to call and see it operate. Having confidence that the Victor will meet with public favor, we are willing, when parties desire to purchase, to send it to their homes on trial, with complete instructions how to use it. Every Machine is Warranted. Traveling Agents Wanted.

MRS. IRWIN'S BUILDING, ALLEGHENY St., BELLEFONTE, PA.

OUR PLATFORM.

The Republican Party of the United States assembled in National Convention, in the City of Philadelphia, on the 5th and 6th days of June, 1872, again declares its faith, appeals to its history, and announces its position upon the questions before the country.

1st. During eleven years of supremacy it has accepted with grand courage the solemn duties of the time. It suppressed a gigantic rebellion, emancipated four millions of slaves, decreed equal the citizenship of all, and established universal suffrage. In exhibition of unparalleled magnanimity it criminally punished no man for political offenses, and warmly welcomed all who proved their loyalty by obeying the laws and dealing justly with their neighbors. It has steadily decreased with a firm hand the resultant discords of the great war, and initiated a wise policy towards the Indians. The Pacific Railroad and similar vast enterprises have been generally aided and successfully conducted, the public lands freely given to actual settlers, immigration protected and encouraged, and a full acknowledgment of naturalized citizens' rights secured from European powers. A uniform national currency has been provided, repudiation frowned down, the national credit sustained under the most extraordinary burdens, and new bonds negotiated at lower rates. The revenues have been carefully collected and honestly applied: despite the annual large reductions of the rates of taxation, the public debt has been reduced during Gen. Grant's presidency at the rate of one hundred million dollars a year. A great financial crisis has been avoided, and peace and plenty prevail throughout the land; menacing foreign difficulties have been peacefully and honorably compromised, and the honor and power of the nation kept in high respect throughout the world. This glorious record of the past is the party's best pledge for the future. We believe the people will not entrust the government to any party or combination of men composed chiefly of those who have resisted every step of this beneficial progress.

2nd. Complete liberty and exact equality in the enjoyment of all civil, political and public rights should be established and effectually maintained throughout the Union by efficient and appropriate State and Federal legislation. Neither the law nor its administration should admit of any discrimination in respect to citizens by reason of race, creed, color or previous condition of servitude.

3rd. The recent amendments to the National Constitution should be cordially sustained, because they are right; not merely tolerated because they are law, and should be carried out according to their spirit by appropriate legislation, the enforcement of which can be safely trusted only to the party that secured these amendments.

4th. The National Government should seek to maintain an honorable peace with all nations, protecting its citizens everywhere, and sympathizing with all people who strive for greater liberty.

5th. Any system of civil service under which the subordinate positions of the government are considered rewards for mere party zeal is fatally demoralizing, and we therefore favor a reform in the system, by-laws which shall abolish the evils of patronage, and make honesty, efficiency and fidelity essential qualifications for public position without practically creating a life tenure of office.

6th. We are opposed to further grants of public lands to corporations and monopolies, and demand that the national domain be set apart for free homes for the people.

7th. The annual revenues, after paying this current debt, should furnish a moderate balance for the reduction of the principal, and the revenue except so much as may derived from a tax on tobacco and liquors, that raised by duties on importations, the duties of which should be so adjusted as to aid in receiving remunerative wages to labor and promote the industries, growth and enterprise of the whole country:

8th. We hold in undying honor the soldiers and sailors whose valor saved the Union; their pensions are a sacred debt of the nation, and the widows and orphans of those who died for their country are entitled to the care of a generous and grateful people. We favor such additional legislation as will extend the government to all our soldiers and sailors who were honorably discharged, and who in the line of duty became disabled without regard to length of service or cause of such discharge.

9th. The doctrine of Great Britain and other European powers concerning allegiance—once a subject always a subject—having at last through the efforts of the Republican party been abandoned and the American idea of an individual's right to transfer his allegiance having been accepted by European nations, it is the duty of our government to guard with jealous care the rights of adopted citizens against the assumption of unauthorized claims by former governments, and we urge continual and careful encouragement and protection to voluntary immigration.

10th. The franking privilege ought to be abolished, and the way prepared for a speedy reduction in the rates of postage.

11th. Among the questions which press for attention is that which concerns the relations of capital and labor, and the Republican party recognize the duty of so changing legislation as to afford full protection and the amplest field for capital, and for labor, the creator of capital, the largest opportunities and a just share of the mutual profits of these two great servants of civilization.

12th. We hold that Congress and the President have only fulfilled an imperative duty in their measures for the suppression for violent and treasonable organizations in certain lately rebellious regions, and for the protection of the ballot-box, and therefore they are entitled to the thanks of the nation.

13th. We denounce repudiation of the public debt in any form or disguise as a national crime, witness with pride the reduction of the public debt and of the rates of interest upon the balance, and confidently expect that our excellent currency will be perfected by the speedy resumption of specie payment.

14th. The Republican party is mindful of its obligations to the loyal women of America for their noble devotion to the cause of freedom. Their admission to wider fields of usefulness is received with satisfaction, and the honest demands of any class of citizens for additional rights should be treated with respectful consideration.

15th. We heartily approve the action of Congress in extending amnesty to those lately in rebellion, and rejoice in the growth of peace and national feeling throughout the land.

16th. The Republican party propose to respect the rights reserved by the people to themselves as carefully as the powers delegated by them to the State and to the Federal Government. It disapproves of resort to unconstitutional laws for the purpose of evils by interference with the rights not surrendered by the people to either State or National Government.

17th. It is the duty of the general government to adopt such measures as will tend to encourage American commerce and ship building.

18th. We believe that the modest patriotism, the earnest purpose, sound judgment, practical wisdom, incorrigable integrity and illustrious services of Ulysses S. Grant have commended him to the heart of the American people, and with him at our head we start to day on a new march to victory.

Mr. Burnside now moved the adoption of the platform as a whole. Carried with only half a dozen dissenting votes.

The convention then adjourned by singing "Auld Lang Syne" and amidst the playing of bands and firing of guns.

Success And Culture.

Dickens, in studying our American life, used to say we work at fever heat. Our unbounded faith in our working energies is one of our national weaknesses. The steam engine is almost deified, and we have quite as much confidence in coal and machinery as we have in Providence. That was a characteristic answer which a Boston fireman made to the question, How the great fire was put out?—"By the blessing of God and the machine, but chiefly by the machine." This is one reason why we put such a false and undue estimate on mere success. We have given this god a high place in our Pantheon, and before it we present the choicest offerings of heart and life. There is such an intensity, such a tension of nerve in our business and politics, that the trade is larger than the man, and the moral character is buried in the pursuits.

We have no protest to make against industry and concentration of effort. Let every honest stroke on the anvil, and every hearty spade thrust after the riches in the earth be honored. Tenacity of purpose is an admirable trait. An unyielding adherence to what we believe to be our appointed work, is an element in the growth of all noble character, and even the "unconquerable revenge and spirit of hate" in the Miltonic Satan has invested that chief of many-throned powers with a singular grandeur. There must be concentration also. It is a condition of doing anything worthy. Superfluous activities must be lopped off, and distractions and dissipations must be shunned. "Select your trade and stick to it," is not bad advice to any young man.

But we have yet to learn the true ethical philosophy of business. An American can scarcely apprehend how he may utterly fail in attaining his chosen object, and yet secure a great success. It is all sentiment to tell him of manhood and the unseen victories. This is the truth to be written in our shops, and on our thronging ways of travel. We may lose the thing seen with mortal eye, yet gain the higher unseen good.

"A noble aim
Faithfully kept is a noble deed,
In whose pure sight all virtue doth succeed."

The martyrs win, though they die; conquerors may fail, though nations have been awed into subjection. It is only another form of the Scripture paradox: "He that loseth his life shall find it."

This estimate of outward success has been heightened by a peculiarity of modern civilization—the division of labor. We rejoice in the triumphs of this simple principle, and the increased productiveness it has given to human industry. But there is danger of an extreme. From the making of a nail up to the learned professions we have divided and sub-divided, until, if we choose, we can isolate ourselves on a spot so circumscribed, that one of the old philosophers could scarcely find standing room. Ask a real estate lawyer a question on personal property, and he confessess his ignorance as though he had never opened Coke or Blackstone. It takes twenty men to make a pin. Says the progressive man of business, in this mode the efficiency of industry is tripled. Yet it must be little and dwarf the intellect to concentrate its life in making the one-twentieth part of a pin. Every man makes a little contract world of his own, and shuts himself in it. By this process of division we dig narrow trenches, where we bury ourselves; and in the intensity of our work, sooner than fail, we will throw in our manhood and our character. The first end of living and working is forgotten. The means are so magnified that the end is lost sight of.

The ancient word for education was culture; the modern is progress. The cure for morbid progress is culture. According to Matthew Arnold, who has given this word currency, culture implies a wider range, a broader reach. of the affections of the intellect. In the narrow sense employed by him, it may do much to lift men out of their exclusiveness. The philosophy of Arnold, though out and out human, has been eminently healthy in modern life. His mode of thinking is a protest against the Pharisaic narrowness of the age. But we would form in the word culture a richer and holier meaning. It is not simply the best training of all the faculties in human schools, but the best training of the soul in the school of Christ. Such culture is a cure for the repulsion and loneliness begotten of outward success. By schools and churches, by books and discussions, by libraries and lectures, let these men of narrow work be taught that they are members of a great brotherhood by a bond which no power can sever, that God is a common father, and every human being a brother. Such teachings—call it culture or what you will—will rest the weary hand, and lift the aching head to look up to other worlds. The great thought of one God and Father of all, one vast family, and one heaven of rest, will hallow the dull toil of the day, keep us true as the needle to our mission of life, and ever fill the soul with a better and more inspiring ideal of manhood.

How Small Expenditures Count.

Five cents each morning—a mere trifle. Thirty-five cents per week is not much, yet it would buy coffee and sugar for a whole family—$40 57 a year—and this amount invested in a savings bank at the end of the year, and the interest thereon at six per cent. computed annually, would in twelve years amount to more than $689—enough to buy a good farm in the West.

Five cents before breakfast and dinner and supper—you'd hardly miss it, yet it is fifteen cents a day—$1 05 per week. Enough to buy a small library of books. Invest this as before and in twenty years you have over $3 000. Quite enough to buy a good house and lot.

Ten cents each morning—hardly worth a second thought, yet with it you can buy a paper of pins or a spool of thread. Seventy cents a week—it would buy several yards of muslin, $36 40 in one year—deposite this amount as before, and you have $2,340 in twenty years—quite a snug little fortune. Ten cents before breakfast, dinner and supper—thirty cents a day. It would buy a book for the childern, $2 10 per week, enough to pay for a year's subscription to a good newspaper. $109 50 per year—with it you could buy a good melodeon from which you could procure sweet music, to pleasantly while away the evening hours. And this amount invested as before would in forty years produce the desirable amount of $15,000.

A WRITER has calculated that as the average area of the human mouth, when open, is about four square inches the combined mouths of the 25,000 singers at the Boston Jubilee will form a cavity of over seven hundred and thirty-six square feet. Measuring Jubilee cavities by the square feet, is a new wrinkle. Should they attempt to sing "The voice of free grace" cries escape to the mountains," the hearers may be tempted to take it literally.

Hoofland's German Bitters.

A Bitters without Alcohol or Spirits of any kind.

Is different from all others. It is composed of the pure Juices, or VITAL PRINCIPLE OF ROOTS, HERBS, and BARKS, (or, as medicinally termed, Extracts,) the worthless or inert portions of the ingredients not being used. Therefore in one Bottle of this Bitters there is contained as much medicinal virtue as will be found in several gallons or ordinary mixtures. The Roots, &c., used in this Bitters are grown in Germany, their vital principles extracted in that country by a scientific Chemist, and forwarded to the manufactory in this city, when they compounded and bottled. Containing no spirituous ingredients, this Bitters is free from the objections urged against all others: no desire for stimulants can be induced from their use, they cannot make drunkards, and cannot under any circustances, have any but a beneficial effect.

Hoofland's German Tonic,

Was compounded for those not inclined to extreme bitters, and is intended for use in cases when some alcoholic stimulant is required in connection with the Tonic properties of the Bitters. Each bottle of the tonic contains one bottle of the Bitters, combined with pure SANTA CRUZ RUM, and flavored in such a manner that the extreme bitterness of the bitters is overcome forming a preparation highly agreeable and pleasant to the palate, and containing the medicinal virtues of the Bitters. The price of the Tonic is $1,50 per Bottle, which many persons think too high. They must take into consideration that the stimulant used is guaranteed to be of a pure quality. A poor article could be furnished at a cheaper price, but is it not better to pay a little more and have a good article? A medicinal preparation should contain none but the best ingredients; and they who expect to obtain a cheap compound, and be benefitted by it, will most certainly be cheated.

Who would ask for more Dignified or Stronger Testimony?

HON. GEORGE W. WOODWARD, formerly Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania at present Member of Congress from Pennsylvania, writes:

PHILADELPHIA, March 16, 1871.

I find "Hoofland's German Bitters" is a good tonic, useful in diseases of the digestive organs, and of great benefit in case of debility and want of nervous action in the system. Yours, truly,
GEO. W. WOODWARD.

HON. JAS. THOMPSON, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania,

PHILADELPHIA, April 28, 1867.

I consider "Hoofland's German Bitters" a valuable medicine in case of attacks of indigestion or Dyspepsia. I can certify this from my own experience of it.
Yours, with respect, JAS. THOMPSON.

HON. GEORGE SHARSWOOD, Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

PHILADELPHIA, June 1, 1868.

I have found by experience that "Heofland's German Bitters" is a very good tonic, relieving dyspeptic symptoms almost directly.
GEORGE SHARSWOOD

HON. JAS. M. WOOD, Ex-Mayor of Williamsport, Pa.

I take great pleasure in recommending "Hoofland's German Tonic" to any one who may be afflicted with Dyspepsia. I had the Dyspepsia so badly it was impossible to keep any food on my stomach, and I became so week, as not to be able to walk half a mile. Two bottles of Tonic effected a perfect cure. JAMES M. WOOD.

Or Wasting away of the Body.
REMEMBER THAT
HOOFLAND'S GERMAN REMEDIES

Are the medicines you require to purify the Blood, excite the torpid Liver to healthy action, and to enable you to pass safely through any hardships or exposure.

DR. HOOFLAND'S PODOPHYLLIN,

Or Substitue for Mercury Pills.

TWO PILLS A DOSE.

The Most Powerful, Yet Innocent Vegetable Cathartic Known.

It is not necessary to take a handful of these Pills to produce the desired effect; two of them act quickly and powerfully, cleansing the Liver, Stomach and Bowels all impurities. The principal ingredient is Podophyllin, or the Alcoholic Extract of Mandrake, which is by many times more powerful, acting and searching than the Mandrake itself. Its peculiar action is upon the Liver, cleaning it speedily from all obstructions, with all the power of Mercury, yet free from the injurious results attached to the use of that mineral.

For all diseases, in which the use of a cathartic is indicated, these pills will give entire satisfaction in every case. They NEVER FAIL.

In cases of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia and extreme costiveness, Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters or Tonic should be used in connection with the Pills. The tonic effect of the Bitters or Tonic builds up the system. The Bitters or Tonic purifies the Blood, strengthens the Nerves, REGULATES the Liver, and gives strength, energy and vigor.

Keep your Bowels active with the Pills, and tone up the system with Bitters or Tonic, and no disease can retain its hold, or ever assail you.

Recollect that it is DR. HOOFLAND'S GERMAN REMEDIES that are so universally used and highly recommended; and do not allow the Druggist to induce you to take anything else that he may say is just as good, because he makes a larger profit on it. These Remedies will be sent by Express to any locality, upon application to the PRINCIPAL OFFICE, at the GERMAN MEDICINE STORE, 631 Arch St., Philadelphia.

THE NEW-YORK TIMES.

A POLITICAL, LITERARY AND MISCELLANEOUS NEWSPAPER.

THE NEW-YORK TIMES.—started in September, 1851,—has for many years been recognized as among the most successful, popular, and influential newspapers in the country. Its proprietors, with greatly increased resources and experience, will spare no pains to extend and strengthen its claims upon the confidence and support of the public.

The TIMES is a Republican journal, and will be devoted, as in the past, to an intelligent and firm support of the Republican Party. It will sustain, with all its ability, the principles and policy which have rendered the party so justly famous in our history. It will advocate those measures by which the honor, the peace and the prosperity of the nation can be best conserved and promoted. It will vindicate our dignity before foreign nations, and will discountenance aught by which our self respect or our love for republican institutions could be endangered.

The TIMES desires to be judged by the highest possible standard of journalism. Its EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT will be conducted in a spirit of fairness and impartiality, free alike from personal rancor or undue favoritism; and will be the production of the ablest and most experienced writers upon all the subjects treated. Its CORRESPONDENCE will be full and timely. Its REPORTS will be prepared with the utmost care, and will embrace every fact or public expression of opinion that possesses interest and importance. The LITERARY DEPARTMENT will be in thoroughly capable hands, and will present a full review of the literature, the fine arts, the music, and the drama of the day.

As a family paper, free from all appeals to vulgar or impure tastes, the TIMES will continue unexceptionable, and may be safely admitted to every domestic circle.

The Sunday edition of the TIMES will include, in addition to all the news selected and original literary matter of the most varied and agreeable character. Special arrangements have been made to impart new attractions to this feature of the paper.

The WEEKLY and SEMI-WEEKLY editions of the TIMES will be compiled with the greatest care, and will contain selections from the most important contents of the Daily issue, besides matters of interest to the agricultural sections of the country. All who prefer a newspaper but once or twice a week will find these editions admirably suited to their requirements.

A special edition of the TIMES for EUROPEAN circulation will be published every Wednesday and Saturday, in time for the European mails, and will be valuable and welcome to our friends abroad, whether Americans or of any nationality than our own.

All these editions of the TIMES are of the very largest size, on large quarter sheets, each containing fifty-six columns printed in clear and legible type, at the following rates.

NEGLECTED OPPORTUNITIES.—With all the characteristic energy of the people of this country, it is a remarkable and lamentable fact that the children of those who have raised themselves to social positions and influence by their personal efforts, almost invariably waste what their parents accumulated. With superior advantages and a bright prospect before them to occupy a higher place than their prudent, persevering fathers, they fall by vice and dissipation into neglect and absolute nothingness.

Neglected opportunities is the sin of those who imagine themselves something when, at the end of a useless life, they discover themselves to be nobodies.

It is natural for parents to hope, pray, and labor for their children, with an ambition to leave them useful and prominent men. But necessity alone develops power, and honest devotion in the steady pursuit of a reputation above reproach, secures what those who waste their opportunities never obtain—a good name.

NEWSPAPER LAWS.

We would call the special attention of postmasters and our subscribers to the following synopsis of the newspaper laws:

1. A postmaster is required to give notice by letter, (returning a paper does not answer the law,) when a subscriber does not take his paper out of the office, and state the reasons for its not being taken; and a neglect to do so makes the postmaster responsible to the publishers for is payment.

2. Any person who takes a paper from the post-office, whether directed to his name or another's, or whether he has subscribed or not, its reponsible for the payment.

3. If a person orders his paper to be discontinued, he must pay all arrearages, or the publisher may continue to send it until payment is made, and collect the whole amount, whether it be taken from the office or not. There can be no legal discontinuance until the payment is made.

4. If the subscriber orders the paper to be stopped at a certain time, and the publisher continues to send it, the subscriber is bound to pay for it, if he takes it out of the post-office. The law proceeds upon the ground that a man must pay for what he uses.

5. The Courts have decided that refusing to take newspapers and periodicals from the post-office, or removing and leaving them uncalled for, is prima-facie evidence of intentional fraud

Duncan, Esq., several of our young worthies, and enthusiastic workers in the Sunday School cause, are absent from town attending a district Sunday School Convention, now holding in Philipsburg. It convened yesterday morning at 10 o'clock. We shall expect a good report of our representatives.

ALMOST DROWNED.—An almost fatal accident occurred on Wednesday of last week to a little daughter of Frank McMullen. Mr. McMullen lives near the race, and the little girl in attempting to cross the foot log near the red barn, between Shortlidge & Co's lime kilns and the toll gate, fell into the water. Several seconds elapsed before the father saw the situation of his child and it was with great difficulty that she was saved.

MR. W. W. SHARPLESS, of Philadelphia, who has been in the employ of Mr. McQuistian of this place, for about one year, left for his former home on Monday last, where he intends to remain permanently. Mr. Sharpless, is an intelligent and energetic young man, and can be, without hesitancy, pronounced one of the best coach painters in this or any other state. We are sorry he could not remain with us, but fortune willed it otherwise. We wish him abundant success in every undertaking.

FIRE.—It seems that incendiarism is not yet extinct in our town. On Thursday, the 13th inst., at about 4 o'clock, A. M., the stable of Mrs. Hamilton, situated back of Howard street, was discovered to be on fire. The alarm was first given by Wm. Clark, the watchman at Reynolds' Bank, of this place. Fortunately the fire was discovered before it got under fair headway, and the flames were soon extinguished by a few buckets of water. The fire was evidently the work of an incendiary. We hope some keen detective will yet scent out the guilty parties, and bring them to condign punishment. Life and property are too valuable, to be hazarded and sacrificed as mere toys by malicious villains. So look out! a day of retribution is near at hands.

CONCERT.—Our citizens were very pleasantly surprised on Tuesday evening, the 11th inst., with one of those rare musical entertainments of merit, that so seldom characterize the touring troupe.

The concert was given by Prof. R. W. Seager's troupe, composed of Miss Knapp, Prof. Seager and his son Frank, under the auspices and conduct of the Undine Fire company.

At eight o'clock, P. M., Reynolds' Opera House was well filled by an audience of Bellefonte's best people, who had been politely seated by the gentlemanly ushers without the slightest confusion or embarrassment. At half past eight the eager audience passed a favorable comment upon the young and beautiful Prima Dona by greeting her appearance on the stage, with hearty applause. The first part of the programme consisted of selections from the Oratorio of Esther, and was as well rendered as could be expected with so limited a troupe. The second scene, however, representing the interview between Esther and Mordecai, in which Mordecai entreats Esther to call upon the King, to persuade him to revoke his decree consigning her people to death, was performed by Miss Knapp, in a most approving manner and with good effect. And did she have the proper support in full troupe, in the character of Queen Esther, she would have few equals.—The second part of the programme was composed of fair miscellaneous selections, and mostly well rendered. Miss Knapp, the beautiful star, sung "Comin' through the Rye;" "Girls get a home of your own," and "The last Rose of Summer," with good effect and fine expression. In all her singing she evidences wonderful compass of voice, touching the low notes and ascending to the highest, with an ease and clearness of voice, and richness of tone, that few can boast of, and which truly commands for her the title of a Prima Donna. The concert was a rich and satisfactory treat to our citizens, who gave it a liberal patronage, showing their appreciation of talent and merit. It is needless for us to comment upon the management which was fine—other than that it was in keeping with that of every entertainment given under the conduct of the Undine Fire Company, which has uniformly commanded the praise and approval of our citizens.

CHAPPED HANDS, lips, &c., are speedily cured by Cocoa-Camphorine.

PIC-NIC.—Our American citizens of Afrique descent, indulged in the luxury of a Pic-nic, in the Linn woods west of town on Thursday last. At 10 in the morning the colored band made its appearance in uniform of white coat, (ornamented with rosette,) white vest, and black pants. It was driven through the streets, in Lose's band wagon, at the same time discoursing some lively airs, which attracted the attention, and elicited the favorable comment of our citizens. They repaired to the grove about 12, M., where they had prepared elegant refreshments, and had erected a platform to be dedicated to Terpsichore. The pale-faced young bloods who acted as spectators, report the music exhilerating, and the dancing during the day lively. In the evening they vacated the woods and changed their base of operations to Bush's Hall, where the festivities of the day were extended into the "wee sma' hours." The whole affair passed off in a quiet and genteel manner and was rather creditable to the Picnicers.

GRUMLLERS AT NEWSPAPERS.—The Bloomsburg Columbian, says: "It is strange how closely men read the newspapers. We never say anything that anybody don't like, but we soon hear of it, and everybody is sure to tell us of it. If however once in a while we happen to say a good thing, we never hear of that; nobody seems to notice that. We pay some man a hundred compliments, and give him a dozen puffs, and he takes it all as a tribute of his greatness, and he never thinks of it; never thinks it does him any good. But if we happen to say things this man don't like or something he imagines is a reflection on him or his character, see how quick he flares up and gets mad about it. All our evils are duly charged to us, but we never apparently get any credit for what we do."

POST BAYARD, No. 90, G. A. R.,
BELLEFONTE, June 10, 1872.

At a regular meeting of the Post the following was unanimously adopted:

Resolved That the thanks of Post Bayard, No. 90, G. A. R., Department of Pennsylvania, be tendered to Messrs Wilkinson & Co., for the handsome and hospitable manner in which they entertained the Unionville Drum Corps, free of charge, on Decoration day, May 30, 1872, and that a copy of these resolutions be furnished the several newspapers of this town for publication.

YOUNG AMERICA for July is the most interesting periodical we know for juveniles. The Editor gives us an excellent full length portrait of himself in the present number. Mice at Play, and Just my Luck are continued, more interesting than ever. Published by W. Jennings Demorest, 838 Broadway, New York. $1,00 per year.

PINE GROVE MILLS, June 11th, '72.

MR. EDITOR:

Amid our life scenes we have scarcely ever enjoyed one more pleasing, refining and elevating than the Concert afforded which was recently held in the Presbyterian church of this place.

We felt how true the remark of the venerable father who said to us after the concert was over "what a delightful evening this has been?" The concert was given (as a gratuity) for the benefit of the church, by the "Ferguson Township Singing Association." The exercises were conducted by Mr. Fletcher Meek, of this place, whose musical taste and talent are of the very brightest order, whose musical education was acquired under Prof. Mason in one of the Normal Institutes of New York, and whose music possesses such rare excellence that we have often wondered that some large city is not the recipient of the sweet tones and the refined taste which we are permitted to enjoy. We can only account for it by his characteristic modesty. We are thankful to the Beneficent Creator that Mr. Meek is so modest. The instrument was played by Mr. Myers, of Boalsburg, who gave full evidence that he is deserving of the reputation which he enjoys as an organist. In view of the large heartedness, talents and attainments, which characterize teacher, officers, and members of this association, we feel that we have a star in our sky, which sheds a cheery light upon dreary points in our lives, and imparts to us a sense of Township pride.

"BLOWING FOR THE SETTLEMENT."—"I organized the first Sunday School in this county and ran it myself," said a shrewd but dissipated Wisconsin lawyer. "A few of us Americans came here early. We wanted to get in decent, industrious settlers, and keep the rowdies out. So I said, 'A Sunday School will draw the folks we want. It will be the best and cheapest way to blow for the settlement.' They all agreed to it. There wasn't a soul of us that pretended to have a grain of piety. So they pitched upon me to carry out the plan. I did it, sending to Mr. Rice of the American Sunday School Union for a library, and ran the school all summer. It did the blowing for us splendidly. Several Christian families came in, and as they had a better stock of piety, I handed the Sunday School over to them. It was a grand thing for us. We secured a good moral settlement. In fact, sir, it got to be so pious that I couldn't live there myself."

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE CENTRE CO. S. S. ASSOCIATION.—This meeting of Sabbath School workers which was held in Milesburg last week completely filled the M. E. Church at every session.

The schools of the county were well represented by regularly appointed delegates. More Ministers of the Gospel were present than at any previous annual meeting. Each of the seven sessions furnished delightful proof of the fact that a real and substantial unity subsists among evangelical christians of every name. The hospitality of families in Milesburg not merely abounded but appeared to be unbounded. The good influence of these annual gatherings, is always felt throughout the county and must greatly further the cause of Christ and His Gospel.

THE LOCUSTS.

MESSRS. EDITORS:

Having noticed in your paper a request for information concerning these interesting insects, I send you herewith for the perusal, and, it may be, the instruction of your readers, the results of my investigations in this particular branch of entomology.

First, allow me to correct a few popular mistakes before proceeding to a brief account of their history and habits. The first and most common mistake made is in regard to the name of the insect.

THE TRUE NAME

is not "Locust," but Red-eyed Cicada, or as named by Linnaeus, Cicada Septendecim. That the term "Locust" should not be applied to these insects is evident to any who read the descriptions given in the Bible, (see Joel) and by eastern travelers of that Oriental plague. The simple facts, that these insects do not devour a single leaf, or march a single mile, shows their great dissimilarity to the Locusts of the East. The true Locusts are more nearly related to our Grass-hoppers, while the Cicadas—pleasant insects in other respects—are close relatives of the Bed-bugs and Pumpkin-bugs. Another erroneous notion is in regard to the signification of

THE "W" ON THE WING.

This mark, which might as easily be interpreted N is caused merely by the spreading of the coloring matter of the veins of the wing a little further into the transparent membrane. As it is invariably found on every Cicada, and as these insects do not appear every place in the United States, or even in our own State at the same time, these two facts conclusively prove that the mark does not fore-token war or anything else.—The appearance of the Cicadas in Southern Pennsylvania, two years ago, was not followed by war, though every splitback among them showed his "W" as he unfolded his wings. Another error is in regard to

to which poisonous effects have been attributed. It is barely possible that these rather stupid and dull insects might thrust their snout into ones skin, if he held still long enough, and some fluid from the insect, or fine hairs from the proboscis, might inflame the puncture and cause poisonous symptoms; but it is hardly credible that these insects would use their ovipositors (erroneously called stings) to pierce human flesh; as their instinct teaches them, to use them only where they deposit their eggs. Besides the process is slow and laborious, as any one can observe by watching them puncture a twig of a tree; and it is entirely different from the quick motion of the bee or wasp. Nor are their effects on vegetation very destructive as is commonly supposed,

EXCEPT TO TREES AND BUSHES THEY ARE PERFECTLY HARMLESS.

Though in countless myriads, their presence in the ground is never manifest by any destructive effects. Nor is it apparent, that what little sap they consume causes the least damage to the trees on which they sit. Their punctures, however, made in depositing their eggs do generally cause the death of the twig they pierce, though even then, they can injure only small trees or valuable bushes.

THE RELATIVES OF THE CICADA

are a numerous and well defined family. The short broad head, projecting eyes, contracted wedge-shaped face, inflexed snout, large broad breast, and a peculiar musical apparatus sufficiently characterise the different species. They are found in all temperate and tropical parts of the world, and though never so numerous, or so regular in their periods, as our seventeen year friends, are peculiar in many respects, and have been noticed from early times. The Greeks called the Cicada, Tettix, and esteemed it a joyous, harmless creature and wore golden ornaments, resembling it, to signify that they, like it, sprang from the ground—that is, were a native people. The Cicada on a harp was the usual symbol for music. Anacrean addressed to the Cicada one of his odes, beginning—

"Happy creature what below
Can more happy live than thou."

Another Greek poet found a witty reason for their happiness in these lines—

"Happy the Cicada's lives
Since they all have voiceless wives."

alluding to the well known fact that the males only have vocal organs.

One other species than our friend Red-eye, is not seldom met with, every summer. It is Cicada Tibicen or the Lyerman or Summer Locust, distinguished by its green-bordered wings and somewhat larger in size. It is found more or less every year. Lest I weary your readers, however, I will defer the accounts of the habits and peculiarities of the Cicada till next week.

LOVEVILLE, June 13th, 1872.

EDITOR REPUBLICAN:

As you are desirous of hearing from among your many patrons concerning the crops, politics, &c. I thought I would give you a few brief items from this place.

The grain here looks poor, the farmers not expecting more than half a crop (and some scarcely that,) of wheat and rye. Oats and hay were somewhat injured by the dry weather in May, but are now coming out. The cut-worms made sad havoc among the first planting of corn here, destroying whole fields at one sweep; but the farmers have replanted and it is now looking well.

The fruit has been hurt some by the frost here, more especially in the lower parts of the valley, but along the mountains I understand it is not much hurt. There is a species of bug feeding on the fruit trees and fruit, that from present indications, will eventually destroy all the peaches and apples. I examined a tree this morning and found on every apple, from eight to a dozen of these bugs, devouring it from eye to stem.—They have only made their appearance quite recently, as I only noticed them this morning for the first time.

The people are suffering very much from the great scarcity of feed for their stock, some have been feeding nothing but straw for several months. The locust has put in an appearance here within the last two weeks, and as evening draws on, his piping voice can be heard from hill and hollow, tree and fence rail, until the very air is resounant with his music. The great talk here is in regard to the L. C. & S. C. R. R. Of course we want it to run right through here, but I am afraid it will go the Martin route, which will take it through the barrens about a mile from this place.

The iron interest is still on the increase. Mr. Jas. Love has sold his farm to a company from Philadelphia, and I understand they intend commencing operations as soon as they take possession, which will be some time this fall. Whether they intend putting up a furnace here, I cannot say, but hope they will as we have plenty of ore to run one.

The people are solid in their support of the Republican nominees, and will poll a full vote at the fall elections, as we have not a democrat in the district. "Greeley is a dead dog," is the expression in every persons mouth.

DUTCHIE.

THE largest day's sawing that has been done in this section was accomplished at Messrs. Weiser & Bender's Beaver Run Steam Saw Mill, located about two and a half miles from this place, on Tuesday, June 11th. In ten hours and forty-five minutes this mill turned out 49,091 feet of boards, as follows:

	FEET.
Inch Boards	46,067
Plank	3,024
Total	49,091

Mr. G. J. Weiser, the resident partner of the firm, who has the management of the mill, himself stood at the saw all day and did the counting, so there can be no doubt as to the exact amount of lumber cut—Frank Petit was the sawyer and James Johnson the fireman. It will be noticed that the lumber cut was boards and not bill stuff, of which much more can be cut in a given time. Mr. Weiser feels confident of outdoing Tuesday's work vastly when the mill is put to the test upon bill stuff.—Philipsburg Journal.

BURNSIDE & THOMAS have made extraordinary reduction in prices for the special benefit of all buyers who pay cash. It is a very rare thing when any business firm make such sweeping reductions in prices along the whole line, which has been made by the well known house of Burnside & Thomas, in their magnificent stock of goods. They have set at defiance the old fogy system of buying on credit, and are saving dollars for their customers. If you want real bargains, and wish to save 40 per cent., which you pay for credit to other firms, go to Burnside & Thomas' and see the wonderful reduction in prices.

THE mammoth picture car of Mr. C. A. Glenn, continues to be just the place for lovers of a fine, correct and clear picture. Mr. Glenn's experience in the art enables him to give perfect satisfaction in every respect. He is always willing to please the most fastideous. Call on him, and our word for it, you will get a phiz to suit.

THE enterprising and pushing proprietors of the Bush House, have pushed out a fine awning in front of their office, which is a good and much needed improvement. W. H. Wilkinson & Co. however, never omit doing anything, that will add to the comfort, pleasure and convenience of the Bush House guests.

IOWA, NEBRASKA, KANSAS, CALIFORNIA.—Advertising alone does not produce success. The thing which is advertised must have intrinsic merit, or else large advertising will eventually do it more harm than good. If you have anything which you know to be good, advertise it thoroughly, and you will be sure to succeed; if it is poor, don't praise it, for people will soon discover you are lying.

Such is the policy of the BURLINGTON ROUTE, which runs to three great regions in the West: 1st, To Omaha, connecting with the great Pacific Roads. 2d, To Lincoln, the capital of Nebraska, and all that beautiful region south of the Platte, filled with R. R. lands and homesteads. 3d, To St. Joseph, Kansas City and all Kansas points.

The roads are splendidly built, have the best bridges, finest cars, the Miller platform and coupler, and the safety air brake (to prevent the loss of life that is every where else happening); Pullman's sleepers, Pullman dining cars, large and powerful engines (to make quick time and good connections), and are in a word the best equipped roads in the West. So that if you desire to go safely, surely, quickly and comfortably to any point in Southern Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, or on the Pacific Roads, be sure that you go "By Way of Burlington."

Your attention is particularly requested to the following certificate referring to those old established remedies, "HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS', and "HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC," from that well known citizen,

IRA C. MITCHELL, ESQ.:

"BELLEFONTE, PA., Oct. 27, 187

Sir:—I have just had the pleasure of meeting your Agent, the first representative of "Hoofland's German Bitters" and "Hoofland's German Tonic," it has ever been my good fortune to meet. For many years I have been purchasing and using them to the great comfort of myself, family and friends, having commenced their use on the recommendations of the Supreme Court Judges of this State. It affords me pleasure to have the opportunity to voluntarily recommend the same to all of my friends and acquaintances who may be suffering from Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Billiousness or affections of the Liver, of kind.

Very Respectfully,
IRA C. MITHELL."

These edicines are and have been well known to the community for the last twenty-five years, as genuine, reliable and deserving remedies for the diseases mentioned in the above certificate. CAUTION.—The public are respectfully cautioned against purchasing watches purporting to be of Elgin manufacture from parties not known to them, as reliable and responsible dealers.

The Excellence and good repute of the real Elgin Watches, has caused Foreign and American manufacturers to make inferior imitations, with the same or similar trade-marks as ours. These watches are being placed upon the market by unscrupulous traders, and in many cases by dealers who advertise American Watches at low prices, and make their profit by supplying, when considered safe to do so, the imitation movement. Avoid dealers who advertise cheap goods and sales upon the C. O. D. plan.

Demand in all cases the certificate of the National Watch Company, signed by T. M. Avery, President, as to genuineness of the watch purchased.
